

Michael Abdouch, CFA

Managing Director

Fixed Income Securities

Today's institutional investor faces a world of growing competition, complexity, regulatory oversight and constantly diminishing spreads. What is required to meet these challenges is a synergistic partnership between investor and broker based on trust, respect and communication.

Since 1984, I have assisted financial institutions in reaching their goals by utilizing the principles of intelligent planning, commitment and integrity. I always seek ways to bring value to my professional relationships and take a long-term win/win approach. I look forward to our establishing a mutually prosperous relationship.
